About me I was born in the city of Athens, Greece. The Sea has always been part of my natural landscape since from a young child, the sight of the sea was a source of fascination for me. While a student I started sailing and spent quite a few unforgettable summers in the sea, with friends and family. Later on, after finishing my studies, I joined a sailing club and one day took part in my first race. From there it was a matter of time before I fell in love with the sport and decided to pursue it professionally. I found passion and joy in traveling through the world's most beautiful landscapes under the blue canopy of my rig, and learned something new sailing boats. As a result, in his characteristic profession, a never-ending challenge, was surrounded by the beauty of the sea and the great coastal reality and traditions. New flavors, new nautical culture and a sense in the end always come along with it. The voyage of discovery continues.
